

ON MODERN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CENTRAL ASIA AND EUROPEAN UNION

Kamoliddin Mirzaahmedov

Doctor of Political science at the national university of Uzbekistan and

Shakhzod Boltaboev

student of political science course at the national university of Uzbekistan.

Abstract. This article discusses contemporary international relations between Central Asia and the European Union.

Key words. Central Asia, Europe Union, important, ultiamatel, globalized, competition.

Today Central Asia and Europe Union relations are developing year after year. There is no doubt that The European Union is far from Central Asia, but we are entering the globalized world. And it is not important distance in relations in the globalized world. In addition to that, we live on the same continent, ultimately in Euraasia, one hand is Europe, other hand is Far East, Central Asia is situated in Central Area. Competition is very strong for this region between Russia, China and Europe especially in economic partnership. Afgan war ended and Central Asia and Europe countries especially Uzbekistan was transit road to come back Europe countries to their home in that time. After Afgan war ending, relations went down a little but geopolitical meaning is changing day by day. European Union try for more activeness on international relations. Especially, with Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan relations are intensive. That's why Kazakhstan has the biggest area and resource in region and it is necessary by geoeconomical and economical. Also, Uzbekistan has the most population and is logistics and transit center of region. Also, Uzbekistan sets the geopolitical tone of the region. In my estimation, no project in the region will be fully realized without Uzbekistan. Also, three countries Turkmenistan, Kyrgyzstan and Tadjikistan have enough resource and opportunity for development.

Sharl Mishel visited to Central Asia, first to Kazakhstan then to Uzbekistan and this created geopolitical tone and this visit was important for both sides. European Union is strong association and indispensable and every country is important in social, economical cooperation for Central Asia today. Central Asia ,specifically Uzbekistan continue cooperating by parallel as organization and strong countries them today. Then The minister of foreign affairs of Germany Mrs Annalena Baerbock visited to Uzbekistan and signed most important contracts .The location of Central Asia is good and region is not small market for Europe.Today Central Asia countries has strong relations with Europe , China and Russia and today it is interest in there for world because this region is 80 million market and transit road center for trading.

In June 2023, Europe Union and Central Asia leaders met in Chulpanata city of Kyrgyzysta,presidents of Central Asia and Sharl Misel participated in this summit. In this summit, most international and regional problems , cooperation issues , discussed together.

Also, recently, David Cameron visited to Tadjikistan and Uzbekistan and the primary focus centered on bolstering economic bonds,also signed the Joint Declaration on Comprehensive Partnership and the MOU in the fields of regional and international connectivity and infrastructure.Central Asia and European Union relations are developing year after year. For example, in 2021, Merchandise turnover of Uzbekistan and European was 3,8mlrd dollar and in 2022,merchandise turnover increased to 22% respectively.

In short, EU and Central Asia relations are developing very fast nowadays and I believe that this continues and it is beneficial for us and we will do a lot of works together in future.

List of Used literature and sites;

www.mfa.uz;

www.stat.uz;

www.ziyo.net

Soft Power and Great -Power Competition Joseph S.Nye